

Atomic Journals for Canvas

Overview

Atomic Journals allows you to incorporate reflection into online learning by inserting writing prompts directly into Canvas pages where students can write their learning journal. Students and teachers can view a journal as a single document that can be downloaded.

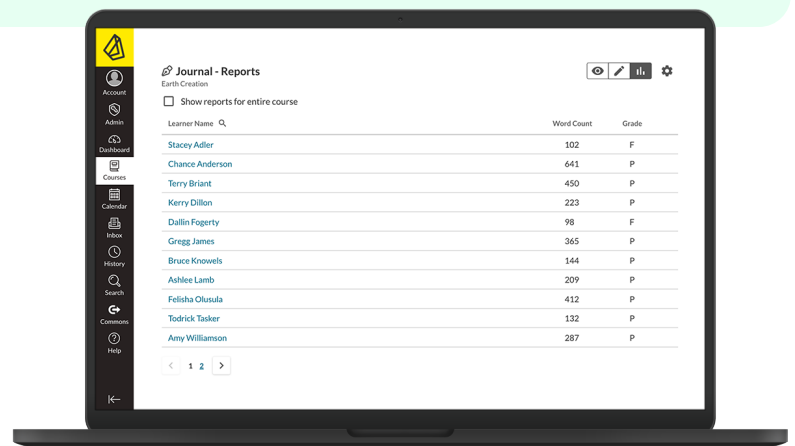

Configurable

You can configure Atomic Journals to allow teachers to view student writing and names, view only writing, or not to view any journal content. If a journal is configured to allow teacher access, it can be configured to send pass/fail or percentage scores to the Canvas gradebook. You can choose to have a separate gradebook score for each journal entry or a single score for the entire course.

Easy Reports

Atomic Journals reports allow you to quickly score and give individualized feedback to journal responses. You can also easily monitor student writing entries, word count, and grades on an assignment or at the course level with a simple click.
